Park Survey Aired COMMISSION STUDIES RECREATION PROJECT

(Ed. note: This is the third in a series of articles on the recent park and recreational system report submitted to the City by Kroeger and Associates.)

At the Torrance Parks and Recreation Commission meeting on May 8, Herma Tillim, chairman, appointed a sub-committee to study the Kroeger report submitted to the City on April 22. The extensive survey recommends that the city consider a civic, park, and recreational development at a cost of $5,000,000.

Three Phases
 Mrs. Tillim appointed her committee to study three phases of the report: location of the proposed parks, the costs, and whether or not the land donations are realistic. So that everyone interested in the project may have an insight as to what Robert Gold, project director, has suggested, the commission is planning a meeting with the City Council, school board and school administrators next week to ask Gold questions and offer comments.

Uppermost in the minds of most people in Torrance is the cost of the project and how it is to be financed. If the plan is accepted, the people of Torrance will have a total system of parks, recreation, civic and cultural facilities approximating $25,000,000. This of course hinges on cooperation with Los Angeles County, the Torrance school system, and other governmental units and private interests.

Speed Essential
 According to the report, speed is of the essence if the plan is to be realized. One of the basic recommendations is that bonds be voted on in the early fall and, if successful, work should start at once and be completed in two years.

A time-table has been set up as follows: 1958 — Landscape and develop all presently owned park areas; acquire all lands recommended starting with the WALTERIA Lake, North Torrance and the Civic Center since cooperation of other units of government is so important and time consuming; and landscape and build facilities on those new lands first acquired. 1959 — Complete landscaping of all newly acquired lands; and complete building program for all major areas.

Many factors directly influence the $5,000,000 cost figure. It can be looked upon as a variable figure depending upon many circumstances.

Time Factor
 One of the factors is timing. Unnecessary delays will increase both land and building costs.

Guard Helps City Put Up Metal Poles

Many visitors to Torrance Park were surprised Sunday afternoon May 5 to see the playing field overrun by men and equipment of the California National Guard, Company E, 132nd Armored Engineer Battalion.

Commanding Officer Capt. D. J. Horlander heard of the need for the equipment by the Torrance Recreation Department in removing several old light standards that had been recently replaced by safer and newer metal poles.

In doing this the captain saw a dual purpose. One was that of saving the city of Torrance the added expense and danger of the job, while another was that of giving his men the practical experience with the heavy equipment stored at the Torrance Armory.

The detail under the guidance of Master Sergeant Alfred B. Bergher had the poles out and the holes filled in time for the day's regular baseball game to proceed on time. Bergher, an assistant highway engineer with the State of California, spends four drills a month with the Guard, has been in the company for two years and has risen from a PFC to master sergeant in this short period of time.

Married and father of a son and daughter, Bergher served for seven years with the Army during World War II, seeing action in Africa and Italy.

Although the company at the present time is nearly at full strength, it is able to take in a few qualified veteran non-commissioned officers with previous would be the most useful in keeping this group constructively busy.

Copies of the brochure and maps including designated areas, facilities proposed, costs, and general outline of the projects are available for public viewing at the City Hall, both Torrance newspaper offices, city library, board of education, recreation department and other public places.

BOOK SALE PLANNED BY YMCA

The Torrance Y's Men's Club, an international men's service club related to the local YMCA, announced plans today for a used book sale on June 14 and 15 at the Torrance YMCA.

The books will be sold at ten and twenty-five cents a volume, and all proceeds will go toward youth work projects of this adult YMCA group.

Paul Burnam, president of the local unit, made a plea for citizens in the area to contribute books to the sale. Burnam stated that every home has books that have long been read for the last time.

He is hopeful that citizens will contribute such books to the "Y," so that others may enjoy them. Burnam pointed out that in past book sales, those who contribute books are often the best customers as they discover new titles to replace the ones they have discarded.

Dick Brown, chairman of the Y's Men's Book Sale, stated that all categories of books will be welcome, and that a member of the service group will be glad to pick up books if you call the YMCA at FA 8-1272.

The Torrance Y's Men's Club meets every first and third Tuesday evening at 7 p.m. at the Torrance YMCA, 2080 Washington ave. All men between the ages of 21 and 36 are welcome to visit the group any Tuesday evening. A program of service, education, and recreation can be enjoyed by all who participate.

THERE'S NO LIMIT — To the things Torrance Press Classified Ads can accomplish. What would you like one to do? Dial FA 8-2345.
